

VOLUME 8, NO. 3 Fall 1990

Sorry, no PDF available

BAT FACT

BCI Scientific Advisory Board member, Dr. Tom Kunz, recently found the fat content of female Mexican free-tailed bats' milk to be the highest of any terrestrial mammal. Only that of marine mammals is higher. High fat reserves enable especially rapid growth and sustain youngsters during their first foraging flights until they become proficient at catching insects.

All articles in this issue:

- ON THE COVER
- Giving Flying Foxes a Second Chance
- HUNTERS IN THE NIGHT
- Return to Thailand
- The Case for Bat Conservation
- After the Hurricane
- Making a Difference
- Bat Exhibit Popular with Visitors
- BCI Members Win Conservation Awards
- First One-Day Bat Study Workshop A Success
- Annual Report Available to Members
- Gifts That Keep On Giving: How Your Gifts Help BCI
- BAT FACT
- LETTERS
- Tell A Friend
- WISH LIST
- A different kind of treasure