

VOLUME 9, NO. 2 Summer 1991

Sorry, no PDF available

BCI to Host Bat Research Meetings

Bat researchers from the U.S., Canada, and Mexico will converge in Austin, Texas, October 16-20 when BCI hosts the 21st Annual Meeting of the North American Symposium on Bat Research. More than 200 chiroptologists are expected to attend the scientific sessions dealing with bat biology, ecology, behavior and conservation. Meeting rooms and accommodations will be at the Crest Hotel next to Austin's famous Congress Avenue bridge, home to 750,000 Mexican free-tailed bats.

For registration information, contact G. Roy Horst, Dept. of Biology, State University College at Potsdam, Potsdam, NY 13676. Interested laypersons are welcome to attend but must register in advance.

All articles in this issue:

- ▶ ON THE COVER
- ▶ Help for Migratory Bats
- ▶ PREDATOR AND PREY: Life and Death Struggles
- ▶ SEEING IN THE DARK
- ▶ Tuning in with a Bat Detector
- ▶ Bats in the Wrong Place?
- ▶ James River Bat Cave Now Open for Visitors
- ▶ BCI to Host Bat Research Meetings
- ▶ Traveling Photo Exhibit
- ▶ Bats Driven from the University of Arizona
- ▶ One-Day Bat Study Workshop
- ▶ New Activity Book for Children
- ▶ Board of Trustees Adds Six New Members
- ▶ WISH LIST
- ▶ Here's a way you can increase your gift to BCI at no extra cost
- ▶ REVIEWS
- ▶ LETTERS
- ▶ Lock and Key