

VOLUME 16, NO. 3 Fall 1998

Vacationer's Guide to Bat Watching

Sorry, no PDF
available

The much-requested Vacationer's Guide to Bat Watching is now available through the BCI catalog, and bat fans won't want to leave home without it! The convenient, spiral-bound guidebook lists more than 70 parks, zoos, museums, and other sites in the U.S. and Canada where visitors can view either wild or captive bats or participate in bat programs and exhibits. In addition to general information about bat watching, the 100-page guide gives details for each site--such as operating hours, admission fees, descriptions of special bat programs, and a list of bat species that can be seen.

Bats have grown so much in popularity in the last half-decade that this guide more than tripled the number of site listings from its precursor, a 1991 BATS article listing 21 bat-watching sites. New bat-related programs and exhibits are cropping up daily at sites across the continent, and BCI will continue to update the guide with these new listings.

The Vacationer's Guide is available to BCI members for $9.95 from the BCI catalog at 1-800-538-BATS (2287) in the U.S. and Canada, or 512-327-9721. You can also order the guide and other BCI catalog products on-line at www.batcon.org/catalog/topcat.html

All articles in this issue:

- ▶ On the Cover
- ▶ Bat Workshops: Putting Conservation Into Practice
- ▶ Workshops Scholarships: An Investment with Exponential Returns
- ▶ 1999 Bat Conservation and Management Workshops
- ▶ Memoirs from Bat Camp
- ▶ Growing Needs, Expanded Training
- ▶ Hidden Housing - Artificial Bark for Bats
- ▶ BCI Highlights
- ▶ Legal Protection Gained for Bats in Sarawak, Malaysia
- ▶ Wish List
- ▶ Thirteen Countries Celebrate European Bat Night
- ▶ Vacationer's Guide to Bat Watching
- ▶ 1999 Student Scholarships Applications Available
- ▶ Experience the World's Most Amazing Bats with Merlin Tuttle on BCI Founder's Circle Tours